Carter,

I have run this proposal by Assistant Commissioner Pillow. The Department would consider this an acceptable equivalency for the seismic provisions and would correct the deficiency documented in the audit of the Codes for Memphis/Shelby County.

Please keep me posted your progress with the City Council and County Commission regarding the adoption of these standards.

Attached is a draft ordinance that the Building Code Advisory Board has finally recommended be sent to the City Council and County Commission for consideration and hopeful adoption. I believe it reflects what we have previously discussed as a fix to the deficiencies noted in the program audit. This will be a stop-gap measure until we can finish the review and amendment process to the 2009 ICC Building, Residential and Existing Building Codes which I would expect to occur later this year with final adoption of these upgrades early next year. I know we are also working on a similar update to the Electric, Plumbing and Mechanical Codes so that all can be in harmony as they are reviewed and implemented. Please review this in the near future and let me know if it corrects the problems found.

I have a question about the Residential Exemption Authorization Form as well. As we conduct the inspections under contract with three suburban cities (Arlington, Lakeland and Germantown) who adopt our Shelby County Codes by reference, should they complete the first section which states they have adopted the 2003 Residential Code by adopting our code by reference, or should they use the section which states that by contract they have hired us to conduct the inspections and that our inspectors are properly certified. I prefer the first alternative if we have a choice in the matter. Let me know as the letters to those Mayors has to go out soon.

Thanks for your help.

I. Description of Item - This item is a Joint Ordinance by the Council of the City of Memphis and by the Shelby County Board of Commissioners amending the Joint Building Code of Memphis and Shelby County,

These amendments:

1. Alter the seismic design requirements so that they will comply with State requirements established in TCA §68-120-101(b) for local jurisdictions wishing to be exempt from state Building Code requirements.
2. Adopt as the reference standard the latest edition (2010) of the design manual used to determine required seismic design elements and materials of construction known as, ASCE 7-10. The Department believes this updated reference work allows for a 20% decrease (approximate) in design load requirements related to seismic forces from the requirements of the state adopted Building Code (2006 Edition of the ICC Building Code), base on the latest evaluation of the seismic risk for this region.
